

DOUGLAS MURRAY
Think Tanker

Dubbed the 'enfant terrible of British neoconservatism', Douglas is a right wing journalist who makes regular media appearances on Question Time and Newsnight. He scares us a little bit but is handsome.

BOBBY NAYYAR
Publisher

The founder of Glasshouse books, which aims to widen the choice of titles available to intelligent consumers (such as you and us), one of their first books, Boys and Girls, a collection of gay short stories, is out now.

ALEXI KAYE CAMPBELL
Playwright

Talented new playwright who scored a hit at London's Royal Court Theatre with his play The Pride, which transferred to New York. He is partner to the supercool Royal Court artistic director Dominic Cooke.

SCOTT DE BUILTÉIR
Radio Presenter

The 22-year-old made a splash in the Irish media with his gay radio show The Cosmo on national station, RTE. He's also a champion of the native tongue and a published poet and journalist in both English and Irish.

IAN DRUMMOND
Landscape Gardener

As the owner of Indoor Garden Design, big clients include the BBC, Greenpeace at Glastonbury, the British Library and Elton John for his legendary White Tie & Tiara Ball. Ian decided at eight that he wanted to be a gardener. "I lived in a council flat with no garden, so it was a bit tricky," he says. "But I had a disabled relative who let me look after her garden." He's now one of the UK's most lauded creative gardeners.

TOM ALLEN
Comedian

Tom is making waves appearing on Big Brother's Little Brother, in movies (yes, movies), at the Edinburgh festival and playing Pip in Radio 4's Award winning Bleak Expectations. He = funny.

DARREN JOHNSON
Politician

One of the best-known figures in the Green Party and the only Green councillor in the London Borough of Lewisham, Darren also represents the Green Party in the London Assembly.

ANDREW UNDERWOOD & NICK CURTIS
Pub Landlords

Owners of The Eagle, a new bar on Manchester's Richmond Street, we told you about this handsome duo a few months ago as they are an integral and interesting part of the gay villages regeneration.

DAVID SMALLWOOD
Therapist

Our resident therapist, David Smallwood was a top bod at The Priory and continues to be passionate about helping gay people deal with the trauma of growing up in the closet. He inspired our 'Issues' Issue.

RICHARD BARNES
Deputy Mayor of London

His appointment as Deputy Mayor of London made him the first gay man to ever serve in this capacity, directly beneath Boris Johnson. Also a member of London's Metropolitan Police Authority.

PHILIP REAY-SMITH
News Reporter

Daybreak's new entertainment correspondent, Phil cut his teeth as an ITN news correspondent. He wrote movingly in Attitude about adopting his son Scott with his husband Michael.
